

Fluval SPEC now available in two new sizes

Sleek Fluval desktop aquariums will turn many heads

MONTREAL, Canada – December 6, 2012 – Continuing to set the pace in modern fishkeeping, Rolf C Hagen Inc.'s Fluval aquatic brand has introduced two new stylish desktop aquariums designed to keep fish hobbyists immersed in the nano aquatic trend.

Small Size, Big Impact

With the launch of SPEC 10-litre (2.6 US gal) and SPEC 19-litre (5 US gal) aquariums, Fluval now offers three very cool-looking nano tanks for aquarium enthusiasts who are looking for a countertop accessory with a high wow factor. (The Fluval SPEC 7.6-litre/2 US gallon model is the smallest in the line.)

Still relatively small in size, the new compact aquariums occupy a smaller footprint compared to larger ones, making them attractive showpieces in a variety of locations, such as tabletops, countertops, desks and other places where space is limited.

As always, SPEC aquariums are not as complex as more sophisticated aquarium systems and make the fishkeeping experience very accessible to a wider audience.

Easy Setup and Maintenance

Besides their appeal as spacesavers, the diminutive tanks are pretty straightforward when it comes to setting up and maintaining. They come with a powerful, low maintenance circulating pump and an efficient filter (cleaning media included) to keep water healthy and sparkling.

In addition, the new aquariums include multiple, energy-saving LED lights that create the perfect conditions for growing aquatic plants.
